COLLECTOR REYNOLDS RESIGNS.

Behind to the Amount of $15,000.00. Gen. R. B. Vance Makes an Assignment

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 6.-Special .-Tax Collector D. L. Reynolds handed his resignation to the Board of County Commissioners yesterday, accompanied by a statement to the effect that on account of the present stringency in financial mat-ters he was behind in his collections about $15,000, and that he desired the board to grant him further time to collect the amount of arrears. His resignalect the amount of arrears. His resigna-tion was accepted and it is understood to be the purpose of the commissioners to give him a reasonable time in which to make up the deficiency in his accounts. Mr. Beynolds's resignation. John H. account for any of the funds which he has collected by virtue of his official pesi-tion, but the oration prevails, neverthetion, but the opinion prevails, nevertheless, that he has failed to account for ite a large sum so collected, and that is bondsmen will be called upon to make ood this deficiency. He has quite a num-er of bondsmen and, if there is a loss, will be distributed to such an extent that the individuals will not be badly crip-pled thereby. There were four candi-dates to fill the vacancy occasioned by Mr. Reynolds's resignation. John H. Weaver, who was in the shoe business in this place for a long time, was selected as his successor.

It is reliably reported here that a pes-

BUNGLING TRAIN ROBBERS.

Two Bandits Driven Away While the Third was Made a Prisoner.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Sept. 6.-Another train was beld up last night on the St Louis and San Francisco Road, this time Louis and San Francisco Road, this time with the unique accompaniment of a captured robber. Express train No. 1, on the 'Frisco west hound, was flagged with a red light, a few miles east of the Pacific, which is about 40 miles west of St. Louis. The train came to a standatil, and two men held the engine crew at bay, while the third went to the express car, and demanded admittance. The messenger refused to open the door. The demand then came from one of the engine guards to "Blow her open". This demand was then came from one of the engine guards to "Blow her open". This demand was almost instantly followed by a deaf-ening report, and the woodwork of the car was wrecked. Then the three high-waymen joined forces and tried to enter the car but were impeded by the wreck-age. The conductor and brakeman rushed up to the robbers with pistols drawn, and commanded them to surrender. The robbers answered with a poorly directed fusilade, which the two brave trainment may back with interest. Such unexpectave back with interest. Such unexpec ed resistance unnerved the robbers, and two of them took to their heels. The third was overpowered and made a prisoner. So far as is known, no one was hurt. The prisoner gave his name as Lenox, son of a farmer at Newburg.

AFTER A LENGTHY SPEECH IT IS DEFEATED BY THE SENATE.

MORGAN'S RESOLUTION.

Mr. Stewart Spent the Balance of the Day Speaking on the Repeal Bill and Did Not Conclude... The House.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 6 .- Among the bills introduced and referred in the Senate to-day, was one by Mr. Cullom to repeal all acts providing for the creation or maintenance of the sinking fund which the Committee on Priveleges and Elections reported in favor of allowing to the claimants for seats from Montana, Washington and Wyoming, funder appointment from the Governors), $2,500 each. Referred to the Committee on Contingent Expenses.

The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Voorhees for the daily meeting of the Senate at 11 a. m., was laid before the Senate by the Vice-President.

Mr. Voorhees said that he desired to make a brief statement. "After full and careful consultation with the friends of the repeal bill on this side of the chamber," said he, "in whose judgment I have been accustomed to confide, and whose wishes I cannot disregard, I will ask that this resolution go over for the pre-sent, believing that if we occupy the time of the Senate carefully and con-scientiously, we would make as much speed, perhaps, as by its adoption, until at least a later day." The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Morgan, for the appointment of a joint select committee on finance, was next laid before the Senate by the predding officer.

Mr. Voorhees suggested that the reso lution could not de adopted without its reference to the Finance Committee, and he moved to proceed with the consideration of the bill to repeal the Sherman Mr. Morgan notified the Senator from Indiana that he could wait for his bill until 2 o'clock. Mr. Voorbees-While that is true, the Mr. Voornees-white that is true, the Senator from Alabama, with exceeding delicacy, takes two Senators from the floor-the Senator from Nevada, (Stewart) who wishes to conclude his speech, and the Senator from Texas, (Mills) who has given notice of his intention to address the Senate. That is all I wish to say.

Mr. Stewart, (in an undertone, and with a smile)-Oh, I will pardon him. Mr. Morgan-I will be entirely delicate and respectful to every Senator when he is in order, and I am in order now, and no Senator has a right to the floor to supersede the resolution which the Vice President has laid before the body. I am not guilty of any indelicacy in asserting my rights under the rules of the Senate my rights under the rules of the Senate. The Senator from Indiana has given notice of a motion to refer this resolution to the Finance Committee. If this proposed joint select committee were not expressly intended to supersede the functions of the Finance Committees in both Houses, that would be a very proper motion, but I do not expect that the Senator will refer to the Finance Committee a measure which has for its purpose to supplement the powers of that pose to supplement the powers of that committee. The actions of that committee up to this time, have not been in con-formity with, and do not entirely or properly cover, the condition or necesitles of the country-Mr. Morgan went on to make a long speech. He had offered the resolution, he said, from his own conception of the situation. There was no human being responsible for it but himself. An attempt the United States by the administration of a certain nostrum to cure a partic part of a complaint which the people of United States recognized as being a very serious one, and presenting a great many lifferent aspects. There was a great versity of opinion as to what should take place after the repeal of the Sherman aw; and the object of his resolution was to put the matter in the hands of a joint select committee, to determine wha joint select committee, to determine what should be done in the event of the Senate's concurring with the House in the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act. Would anybody undertake to say that there was no necessity for further legislation after the Sherman act was repealed? Had any one binted that repeal was to be a cure for the financial difficulties of the people of the United States? Was it proposed to do anything more than to give a mere reapite until the country could right itself up, or until the legislation of Congress could be one had suggested as yet that that particular remedy was going to relieve the country of all the great evils that it was experiencing, and had been expe-riencing for the last two months, or fereing for the last two lifetimes for the last year.

Therefore, it was necessary not only to meet public expectation, but to perform the duty devolving on Senators, to take a broad and general view of all the different performance of the selection to the a broad and general view of all the dif-ficulties suggested in relation to the financial and monetary situation of the United States. It was necessary that a joint select committee should investigate fully and completely the whole subject; and when it understands it, bring forward one bill, or several bills, for the purpose of rectifying the trouble.

Mr. Morgan said he wanted an inves-tigation of the whole subject. He wanted

Mr. Morgan said he wanted an investigation of the whole subject. He wanted the country to be informed. He had no particular pet measure of his own, and was influenced by no partisian consideraticis. He was not of such, he thanked Almighty God. He was willing to your for any system or measure that would take the people secure heaceforth against such outrages and wrongs. He cannot not such outrages and wrongs. He cared no abother the measure was to be a Republi a Democratic or a Populist measure made no difference, provided only that would give relief to the people (in It made no difference, provided only that it would give relief to the people (in accordance with the constitution), which they had a right to expect at the hands of Corgress. He was not going to be itheral. He was not going to inquire whether somebody outside of the Senate of amber wanted it done, or did not want it done. He was not going to ask of persons without legislative newers to form a joint commission or to investigate the question. He felt the necessity of broad, Catholic, orthodox action in regard to finance. If the Senate wanted to take the tax off the State banks, and if that was the judgment of Congress as being one of the best remedies, let that be done. If Congress wanted to re-monoclize silver as a neans of restoring confidence and was giving a basis of credit and redemption, let that be done. If Congress wanted to strike silver to death, or to strike gold to death, let that be done. But, said he, let us hold the reins over our own institutions and our own establishments. Let America furnish to Americans the Let America furnish to Americans the proper currency for circulation. Let us not be dependent, in regard to our cur-rency, on Great Britian, Germany or

When Mr. Morgan resumed his seat, the clock showed the hour to be ten minutes before two. No Senator made a sign of desiring to occupy the interval of ten min-utes, after which it would be the duty of the Vice President to lay the repeal of the Vice President to lay the repeabili before the Senate as the unfinisce business. After a short pause Mr. Voor hees suggested that the resolution should go to the calendar and the Senate should now proceed with the repeal bill. Tha part of Messrs. Morgan and Harris. After spending an hour on this subject, he paused for a rest, and Mr. Tel-ler came to his aid by suggesting the absence of a quorum. The roll was called and a number of Senators came trooping in from the cloak rooms, 59 members pswered and Stewart proceeded.

Mr. Stewart was still occupying the floor and showing no symptoms of burning his speech to a close when at 5 P. M., Mr. Voorhees, his patience apparantly ex-hausted, asked him whether he vished o continue his remarks this evening. RESULTS OF THE RACES AT SHEEPS HEAD AND LATONIA.

Defargilla Defeats Sir Matthew and Pedes trian-Results of the National League Ball Games.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE TRACK, Sept. 6.—Only about 3,000 persons, mostly regular, put in an appearance at this track to-day. The weather was perfect and the track dry and fast. The bookmakers and the public clinched as usual on the first race. The Western contingent put their money up with such con fidence in Pedestrian that his price dropped quickly from 8 to 5 to even money. A plunge on Lade Violet sent Pedestrian's price back a couple of points near the close of the beting. De-fargilla and Sir Matthew, both sprinters of high class order, were practically neg lected. From the bend to the third, it was a terrific drive between Defargilla, Sir Matthew, and Pedestrian. The trio finished almost on a line in the order named above.

There were seven starters in the second race and they were an uncertain lot of two-year-olds yet the favorite won, the second choice, second, the third choice third, and so on right through the list.

The third race was a brisk betting event. Nomad was in active demand at 8 to 5. Madrid was also heavily backed and Marshall was a hot third favorite May Win and Tom Tough were supported in a small way at 6. The winner turned up in May Win, who had all she could do to cut the decisive lead of Boyd Pantlin to within a few lengths of the finish.

In the fourth event, Banquet, the favor-ite, won from Charade by three lengths. Terrifler was third, a length and a half behind. Roslyn, at 3 to 5, won the next race easily from Fondoline, who heat May Lose a neck for the place. In the last race, Armitage, who was second choice in the betting, beat Rubicon, the favorite.

BATTLE OF ENDURANCE

THE PLAN OF THE REPEAU BILL FIGHT IN THE SENATE.

Why the Resolution Changing the Hours of Meeting Was Not Pushed No.

Date Fixed for the Vote.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. - Secretary Carllale was at the Capitol to-day, and had quite a conference with some of the leaders of the House, after which he went to the Senate and had a long talk with Chairman Voorhees, of the Finance Committee. It was after Secretary Carlisle had conferred with a number of Sen ators that the conclusion was reached that it would be well not to push the resolution providing for the change of the hour of meeting to 11 o'clock, for the reason that such action might be construed as a desire on the part of those friendly to the repeal bill to press it too hard. It has been said that it was decided to bring the repeal bill to a vote the 18th of this month, but Mr. Voorhees denies that there has been any discussion upon that proposition or that any day has even been suggested. It is known, however, that just as soon as the leaders on the idministration side believe that legitimate debate has been exhausted and that discussion has despectated into a species. cussion has degenerated into a species of oratorical flibustering, they will en-deavor to force a vote, by passing a resolution providing for continuous sessions of the Senate, day and night, until a of the Senate, day and night, until a vote is reached.

The silver men, however, met this program with one of their own which even thus early in the proceedings brings to the front the question of endurance. They began it yesterday and kept it up to-day. The action of the various committees, or rather their non-action, indicates that there is to be no general legislation until repeal has been acted upon. Every committee has before it important bills bearing upon every conceivable subject and yet save a few bills for private relief, not a report has bills for private relief, not a report has been made to the Serate. This is under-stood to be in accordance with the pro-gram that nothing shall be permitted to get in the way of the measure the Sen-ate is now debating.
